DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
2. Claims 1-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Sonesh et al (US 6,046,762).
3. In regards to claims 1, 8, 15, 20, 22, and 23, Sonesh discloses a method and system for establishing a remote agent station (Fig. 1 and remote call agents 121 and Fig. 5 and remote agents 503)) from a call center (Fig. 1 and local call agents 120) and Fig. 5 and call centers 501 and 502), comprising steps of: establishing a data link between a computer platform at the remote agent station and a CTI processor connected to a telephony switch at the call center (col. 6 lines 34-37 and col. 9-10 lines 63-4); determining to switch a selected one of the incoming calls to an agent at the remote agent station; retrieving data associated with the selected incoming call from a database (database server 130) at the call center (col. 5 lines 44-50 and col. 6 lines 49-58); forwarding the data associated with the selected incoming call to the computer platform at the remote agent station via the data link; placing a call from the call center to a telephone at the remote agent station; and switching the selected incoming call to the remote agent station (col. 10 lines 5-32).
4. In regards to claims 2 and 9, Sonesh discloses a method, wherein the CTI processor at the call center and the computer platform at the remote agent station each have a modem connected by a telephony line to a telephony network, and the data link is established by the computer platform dialing up the CTI processor through the telephony network (col. 6-7 lines 63-7, col. 8 lines 56-67, and col. 9-10 lines 63-17).

5. In regards to claims 3, 10, 16, and 24, Sonesh discloses the method and system, wherein the telephony network is a publicly-switched telephony network (Fig. 1 and PSTN 111).

6. In regards to claims 4, 11, and 25, Sonesh discloses the method, wherein the CTI processor at the call center is adapted as an Internet server, and the data link is established by the computer platform at the remote agent station dialing up an Internet service provider and establishing an Internet connection to the CTI processor (col. 6 lines 49-58, col. 8 lines 31-39, col. 9-10 lines 63-4, and col. 10 lines 33-65).

7. In regards to claims 5, 6, 12, 13, 17, and 18, Sonesh discloses the method, wherein the data forwarded is displayed as a screen pop on a video display connected to the computer platform at the remote agent station (col. 6 lines 34-55 and col. 7 lines 24-32).

8. In regards to claims 7, 14, and 19, Sonesh discloses the method, wherein first control routines executing at the CTI processor and second control routines executing at the computer platform at the remote agent station are adapted to cooperate over the data link to provide call center services to the agent at the remote agent station (col. 6 lines 49-58 and col. 10 lines 5-32).

9. In regards to claim 21, Sonesh discloses the system, wherein the data connection is established prior to a first call being switched to the remote agent station, and is maintained open thereafter as further calls are switched to the remote agent station (col. 10 lines 5-9).

Response to Arguments

10. Applicant's arguments filed 09/12/03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant states that Sonesh does not teach establishing a remote agent station from a call center comprising the specific steps of first, determining routing for the call to be the remote agent station, then retrieving data associated with said call, forwarding the said associated data to the remote station display unit before call connection to the remote station, and then placing the call from the call center to the remote station and switching the call to the remote station. Examiner respectfully disagrees with this argument. Sonesh does teach establishing a remote agent station (remote call agent 121 and remote agent 503) from a call center (local call agents 120) comprising the specific steps of first, determining routing for the call to be the remote agent station (col. 7 lines 20-27 and col. 10 lines 5-9), then retrieving data associated with said call (col. 7 lines 17-21 and col. 7 lines 61-65), forwarding the said associated data to the remote station display unit before call connection to the remote station (col. 8 lines 1-7), and then placing the call from the call center to the remote station and switching the call to the remote station (col. 8 lines 1-18 and col. 10 lines 5-32). Applicant states that data associated with the incoming call routed to the remote station is not automatically forwarded to the remote station according to the teachings of Sonesh. Examiner respectfully disagrees with this argument. Sonesh does teach automatically forwarding to the remote station, data associated with the incoming call routed to the remote station (col. 8 lines 1-7). Therefore, information required by the remote station, is retrieved by the remote station prior to the call being forwarded to the remote station.

Conclusion

11. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

12. A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
